The Colorado State University Todos Santos Center

The Colorado State University Todos Santos Center is an international extension of Colorado State University. The Center provides a variety of research and educational opportunities for university students, and functions as a community hub for educational sessions.

Vision
Through the Colorado State University Todos Santos Center and in support of our land-grant mission, Colorado State University (CSU) creates bridges across the border to Mexico, expands CSU research and teaching, and engages the talents and wisdom of the communities of Baja California Sur.

Mission
To cultivate generations of global citizens and thriving communities through collaboration, experience, and exchange of knowledge.

Outcomes
CSU answers calling of the 21st century land grant university by leveraging high impact practices in education and creating meaningful long-term opportunities and relationships across borders to address global challenges.

The Colorado State University Todos Santos Center operates in Mexico as a non-profit social assistance organization. The legal structure of the CSURF Mexico AC is similar to that of a non-profit organization.

CSU’s long-term commitment in Baja California Sur is evident through investment in programs, facilities, and partnerships. CSU faculty, staff, and students utilize the Center for study, research, outreach, and engagement, and in addition to CSU education abroad programs, the Center offers local workshops, English classes, special events, and ongoing opportunities for Baja California Sur community members to engage.

The Center is a cost recovery unit, meaning that all revenues are reinvested into the Center to pay for staffing and local expertise, program planning, health and safety, utilities, building maintenance, vehicles, and more. These investments allow the Center to grow as a hub for engagement, and to continue to develop an ever expanding network of partners.

Your overnight stays at the Center directly benefit the programs, the community, and the long-term sustainability and continuity of CSU engagement in this region. Thank you for your business and we look forward to supporting your program.
CSU Todos Santos Center
Full Service Support for Programs in Residence

As an international extension of Colorado State University, the CSU Todos Santos Center is designed to provide CSU students and faculty with experiential learning opportunities via connection to Baja California Sur partners and organizations, classroom space, health and safety, food and lodging, and access to CSU vehicles. Services include:

- Pre-trip course planning, exploratory research trip support, student recruitment and advising, creation of itineraries, introductions, orientation, coordination with other internal resources.

- Todos Santos community liaison and program development. Includes creating itinerary, setting appointments, making connections, and facilitating meetings with local and regional partners including schools, non-profit organizations, Universities, government agencies, and more. We provide a basic level of professional support to support program development, launch, and implementation. Additional support is available for an additional fee. Services must be pre-scheduled.

- Program logistical support. Includes pre-trip planning; on-site program support; special events; scheduling of tours, translation or other services; coordinating payment of invoices for local vendors; purchasing of supplies with advanced notice. Includes coordination of on-site meals, including to-go options to fit the group’s schedule.

- Access to facility spaces, such as classrooms, conference rooms, or faculty office space, at no additional rental cost. Includes facility set up, cleaning, and arranging of additional services such as special catering, equipment rental, or advising in purchasing of supplies.

- Health and safety support and 24/7 on-call emergency response, including support and coordination for medical situations, emergencies, or natural disasters.

- Access to CSU vehicles for pre-approved faculty or staff (charges apply).

- Administrative support including standard contracting, purchasing, accounting support, and development of schedules and facility use agreements. Additional hourly charges for the development of MOU’s, professional translation, or specialized legal services may apply.

- Semester Program Coordination including all of the above plus evaluation of teaching proposals, instructor agreements and orientation, student recruitment and advising, student course registration, pre-departure health and safety, scheduling of semester field excursions and community engagement, individual and group travel budgets, airfare reservations, instructor pay, partnership with a Center program coordinator for course planning and implementation, post-program expense reconciliation and debrief.
